

Doug Clark

When my perfect storm came and washed away my positions, possessions, and popularity, my value – at least as I saw it – plummeted. With a failed marriage, deep depression, and a soul-splitting loss of purpose, I was left feeling lost, alone, stranded, listless and disconnected.

As I worked to reestablish a life worth living, I have been reminded of and uncovered practical tools, life insights and powerful hard truths regarding a wide range of subjects: The Power of Imperfection, The Power of Hope, The Power of Purpose, The Power of the Mind, The Power of Words, The Power of Friends, The Power of Forgiveness, The Power of Gratitude, The Power of Attitude and more. While I don't have it all figured out, I've learned a lot, and it is my privilege to speak to groups and churches and to share my story with whoever will listen.

If you would like to have me come speak, I can be reached at Doug@GiveServeLive.com

I've also written a book called Overcoming My Perfect Storm. In it I share my story and describe the wisdom that helped me overcome my Perfect Storm. You can obtain your copy at Book.
